

February 8, 2022 - COVID-19 Community Updates

We have good news to report! As a result of prior rigorous testing of residents and staff, coupled with the successful turnout of our vaccination clinics, continued on-going resident/staff screenings and strict compliance with multiple Long Beach Public Health directives, we have been clear of COVID in our community.

We will continue to test all of our staff & residents on a weekly basis while still maintaining all other strict protocols. If a resident or staff exhibits any symptoms, they will be tested immediately by our private lab.

Communal Dining

We are happy to announce that communal dining will begin this week in our dining room for residents who are not on isolation or under quarantine.

- There will be limited number of seats at each table with at least six feet between each resident.
- We will continue to remind Residents to wear facial coverings while not eating
- In-Room Complimentary Tray service will still be provided to the resident upon request
